Work of U.P. author selected as 'Michigan Notable Book'

Steve Lehto

MARQUETTE — Michigan Notable Author Steve Lehto will speak at the Peter White Public Library Thursday at 7 p.m. in the Community Room. Lehto's book, "Death's Door: The Truth Behind Michigan's Largest Mass Murder," was recently named a Michigan Notable Book by the Library of Michigan.

"Death's Door" is described as the most accurate account of the 1913 Italian Hall tragedy that struck Calumet during an intense labor strike. Until now, very little has been done to uncover the truth in this unsolved mystery. Lehto wades through the conflicting news reports, transcripts, and other documentation to set the record straight.

Published in November 2006, "Death's Door" is already in its second printing. The book was also recently announced as a finalist by ForeWord's Book of the Year in the Regional and True Crime categories.

Lehto, a writer, attorney and an adjunct professor at the University of Detroit Mercy School of Law, teaches consumer protection and trial practice. He resides in southeast Michigan.

The Library of Michigan's 2007 Michigan Notable Books Author Tour is sponsored by the Library of Michigan Foundation and the Michigan Center for the Book.
