The Perth Wildcats have announced their second import for season 2007-08 - Rashad Phillips.

Dubbed in his college years "Baby Iverson", the lightning quick 5'10" guard will bring speed, agility and seasoned floor-marshalling experience to the team according to the club.

Phillips, who starred at the University of Detroit being named Mid-Continent Conference player of the year twice, comes to Perth following a successful stint in Europe.

He adds to the Wildcats signing of WA boy Alex Loughton earlier this year.

Clint Wheeldon and Lachie Reid caught up with Phillips for Sports Extra on Sunday morning.
