Oakland County news briefs

October 7, 2007

BIRMINGHAM: Meet finalists for superintendent

The public will get a chance to meet the three finalists for superintendent of the Birmingham School District during receptions and final interviews.

The receptions and interviews are open to the public and will take place at the district's administration building, 550 W. Merrill. The receptions will be from 5 p.m. to 6 p.m. The interviews start at 8 p.m.

On Monday, the candidate being interviewed will be Dr. Michael Livovich, superintendent of Hanover Community School Corporation in Cedar Lake, Ind.

The next day, Paul DeAngelis, the Birmingham schools' current deputy superintendent, will have his turn. On Wednesday, Dr. David Larson, superintendent of Harbor Springs Public Schools, will be in town.

The school board could announce the winner as early as Oct. 16, district spokeswoman Marcia Wilkinson said. However, the board could decide to make site visits, which would delay the decision.

5 to run Nov. 6 for 2 spots on school board

Five people will compete Nov. 6 for two spots on the Birmingham School District board.

Only one incumbent, Birmingham real estate developer Rob Lawrence, is seeking re-election. Shelli Weisberg, the other board member whose term is expiring, is campaigning for a seat on the Birmingham City Commission.

The challengers are: Christopher Conti, a Birmingham resident and financial expert in the automotive industry; Gregory Heisy, a Franklin resident and research veterinarian with the Henry Ford Health System, and Cyrus Motlagh, a Franklin attorney and professor at the University of Detroit Mercy's business school.

Teresa McCardell of Bloomfield Hills, a write-in candidate, is active in the Friends of Different Learners group, which supports students with learning challenges.

SOUTHFIELD: Roadwork to close lanes on Telegraph, 10 Mile

There will be lane closures on Telegraph and 10 Mile roads today for maintenance work, but all lanes are expected to be reopened Monday.

The inside lanes of both southbound and northbound Telegraph Road at 10 Mile Road will be closed as crews perform sewer repairs. As well, one lane is to be closed for traffic on westbound 10 Mile.
