

Linda Ann Sillari

SALEM - Linda Ann (Walworth) Sillari died April 19, 2008, at her home in Glen Ellen, Calif.

She was born in Methuen, Mass., on Dec. 5, 1956, to Donald and Carolyn Walworth, and she lived most of her life in Salem until moving to California. She graduated from Salem High School and worked for the National Weather Service, Logan Airport and was a marketing director for Polymer Technology in Wilmington, Mass.

Mrs. Sillari was a very social person with an amazing zest for life. She loved to entertain and put together many dinner parties. She was very artistic and started taking art classes a few years ago, and it appeared she was a natural artist from the start. Her oil paintings are strikingly beautiful.

She loved her family and her dogs, and she will be remembered for her kind spirit, gentle nature, her warm inviting smile and her gracious heart.

Mrs. Sillari was predeceased by her father, Donald Walworth.

Family members include her husband, Edward Sillari of Glen Ellen; her mother, Carolyn Walworth of Salem; a sister, Suzanne and her husband, Richard Boisvert, of Windham; a niece, Jamie Lyn Boisvert of Windham; three stepchildren, Kim and her husband, Jon Flintoff, of Moorpark, Calif., Eddie and his wife, Susan Sillari, of Simi Valley, Calif., and Katie Sillari of Scottsdale, Ariz.; and a grandson, Jonathan Conner Flintoff of California.

Services took place Friday April 25, in Sonoma, Calif.

Arrangements were under the direction of Duggan's Mission Chapel of Sonoma, Calif.
