UPDATED: 2:37 pm EDT October 21, 2008

Six metro Detroit colleges and universities will participate in the Detroit chapter of the Association for Corporate Growth's second annual ACG Detroit Cup in January.

The competition will place the six schools against each other in a battle of business school smarts for the chance to win up to $10,000 in scholarship money.

The six schools participating are: the Eli Broad School of Business at Michigan State University, Oakland University, the Ross School of Business at the University of Michigan, the University of Detroit Mercy Business School, Walsh College and Wayne State University.

The competition is open to all graduate students who are officially registered through the participating schools.

Teams can be formed with up to four members.

The first round of the competition will take place Jan. 21-31st. Teams will submit an executive summary and present their recommendations before judges. They will also be questioned by judges.
