Cleveland State Will Face Detroit Mercy on Tuesday In Opening Round of Horizon League Tournament

Submitted by Eugmc on February 28, 2009 - 10:01pm. Basketball Cleveland Teams More Sports NCAA Sports

The Cleveland State Vikings fell in a heartbreaker to #24 Butler today losing the contest by 2 points. With the hard fought victory, Butler has earned the top seed in the conference tournament. The loss had no affect on the Horizon League Tournament seeding for the Vikings as CSU has earned the #3 seed after finishing with an identical record with Wright State through the conference tie breakers.

The Vikings will face the University of Detroit Mercy in their first contest in tournament. The Vikings have defeated the the Titans twice this season. The game is set for a 7:00 tip at the Wolstein Center. If the Vikings are to prevail against the 10th seed in the conference, they will play the winner of the University of Illinois-Chicago versus Youngstown State game that will be played at host Butler.

Tickets for the game at Cleveland State on Tuesday are available at the Wolstein Center box office. The Vikings still have an outside shot at hosting the Horizon League Championship game if Butler was to fall in their contest next week and if CSU was to advance to the finals of the tourney.
