

Monday, March 16, 2009 |

Moncks Corner, SC 63° Feels Like: 63° Light Rain View Warnings/Advisories

UDM Law help local low-income veterans

Text size: small | medium | large

KRISTEN GRIFFIN

Published: March 13, 2009

The University of Detroit Mercy School of Law (UDM Law) has launched the second year of a nationwide tour of its Mobile Law Office (MLO) which is providing legal assistance and/or representation to thousands of low-income veterans on federal disability and pension benefits matters throughout the United States. Project SALUTE will stop in North Charleston, Friday, March 27 from 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. at the Inner City Praise & Worship Center, located at 2060 Harley Street. Project SALUTE will also be in North Charleston on Saturday, March 28 from 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. at the Armory Park Community Center, located at 5000 Lackawanna Blvd. Rev. Edwin "The Chef" Wright and the Inner City Praise & Worship Center are working in conjunction with UDM Law to maximize the reach and impact of Project SALUTE's trip to North Charleston.

UDM Law is the only law school in the country with an MLO, a Recreational Vehicle that has been outfitted as a law office. For the national tour, General Motors is donating a specially designed, state-of-the-art RV that follows ADA accessibility guidelines, including a wheel-chair lift, oversize bathroom and same-level floor throughout the coach. Through the MLO, volunteer attorneys and UDM Law faculty and students counseled and/or otherwise assisted over 2,000 people during the past year. The MLO has made numerous stops at regional senior centers, churches, and other similar facilities, as well as regular stops at facilities where veterans congregate