What are Mercy values? What is the connection of Mercy to justice? And how are these concerns for expressing and advocating mercy and justice lived out in the context of the current crisis in Honduras? Come hear stories of sorrow and hope, devastation and regeneration, oppression and resilience and, above all, courage and determination. Your guides will be Sister of Mercy Mary Kay Dobrovolny RSM and friends Mary Anne Perrone and Gail Presbey, who have recently participated in the international solidarity delegation Vamos a la Milpa in Honduras. Sister Mary Kay serves as a vocation minister for her congregation. She lives in Casa de Misericordia, an intentional community at the U.S.-Mexico border in southern California. Recently, she was Minister in Residence at our own university. Perrone is an educator, activist and spiritual guide, and a member of CLASA's advisory board. Presbey is professor of Philosophy and director of CLASA. See an article about Sr. Mary Kay's trip in Catholic News. Also see her article, The human right to migrate, and the right to stay: Lessons from the border and Honduras. For more information contact Presbey at presbegm@udmercy.edu or 313-993-1124. Co-sponsored by University Ministry.
